The Fast Break

At a Glance: Tonight, the Bighorns look to win the first playoff series in franchise history, on the heels of a last-minute victory over Rio Grande Valley last night...Reno trailed by 5 points with 1:35 remaining before scoring the final 7 points...G D.J. Strawberry scored the game-winning bucket with 5 seconds remaining...the winner of tonight's game will play Austin in the second round of the D-League playoffs.

All-Time Series: Tonight's titanic struggle marks the 9th all-time meeting between the Bighorns and Jonah Goldberg's Rio Grande Valley Vipers...the 2 teams have split the first 8 games of the series...last night was the first win in franchise history in Rio Grande Valley for the Bighorns...they had previously been 0-2...RGV had lost just 4 home games all season before last night's game.

Playoff Picture: This series is the only 1 of 4 first-round series that is still being played...Iowa defeated Utah 2-1, Austin defeated Dakota 2-1, and Tulsa defeated Sioux Falls 2-1 to advance to the second round...the winner of this series will play Austin, with the time and location to be determined...if the Vipers win, Game 1 of the second-round series will be played in Austin (as RGV would be the higher seed)...if the Bighorns win the series, Reno would play host to Austin in Game 1 and travel to Austin for Games 2 and 3 (if necessary).

R-O-D-B-E-N, Son: Over the 1st 2 games of this series, C Rod Benson has averaged 25.5 ppg and 19.0 rpg... Benson grabbed 20 boards in Game 1 and 18 in Game 2...coming into this season, the all-time single-game playoff record for rebounds was 17...the Cal product is the D-League's all-time leading rebounder in the regular season with 1,656...Benson also shares the record for single-game rebounds in the regular season with 28 (with DAK, at SXF, 12/9/07)...Benson has grabbed double-digit rebounds in 22 of his last 30 games, dating back to 1/30...is averaging 12.4 rpg during that stretch.

Fill'er Up: Last night, Reno set a franchise record by shooting 63.0% from the field (46-73)...it came a game after shooting just 36.0% (27-75)...7 of the 9 Bighorns that saw action last night shot 50% or better from the floor...Saturday, only 3 Bighorns shot above 50% from the floor.

What's Wrong With This Picture? Reno and Rio Grande Valley have had vastly different relationships with the NBA this season...the Vipers have had 5 different players called-up to the NBA a record 10 times this season (Antonio Anderson; Will Conroy, 2; Mike Harris, 3; Kenny Hasbrouck; Garrett Temple, 3)...Reno has yet to have a Gatorade Call-Up to the NBA in 2 years of existence...this season, RGV has had 2 NBA assignees a total of 4 times (Jermaine Taylor, 3; Joey Dorsey, 1)...Reno has not had an NBA assignee this season.

Biggest Little Notes in the World: Last night was Reno's first victory on a Monday this season...the Bighorns are 9-2 all-time in the month of April...G Desmon Farmer attempted the most 3-pointers in the D-League during the regular season (357), while RGV's Ernest Scott shot the second-most threes (321)...C Rod Benson was the only player on either team to register either double-digit rebounds or assists last night (18 rebounds).

HIDALGO, Tex.—Facing elimination from their first-ever trip to the postseason, the Reno Bighorns picked-up a gutsy 128-126 victory over the Rio Grande Valley Vipers Monday in Dodge Arena. The win evens the first-round series at one game apiece and forces a decisive game three on Tuesday night.

With the game tied and down to the final seconds, D.J. Strawberry connected on a jumper to put the Bighorns up by two with five seconds remaining. Rio Grande Valley failed to convert in the closing seconds, pushing Reno to its first-ever postseason win.

The Bighorns caught fire early, but the Vipers would rally back in the second half. Reno led by seven points after one and augmented the lead to 11 at the break. Rio Grande Valley would storm back to take a five-point lead with just 1:35 to go, but Reno would score the final seven points of the game to extend the series.

Rod Benson led all scorers with 29 points and 18 boards in 40 minutes of action. Desmon Farmer hit four three-pointers en route to 27 points, and Strawberry added 21 points and three blocks for the Bighorns.

Antonio Anderson paced the Vipers with 28 points and seven rebounds. Will Conroy kicked-in 27 points, eight boards and six assists.
